Dickinson Speaks About Energy At New Brockton

A proposed new federal Department of Energy and Natural Resources has a slim chance of becoming a reality, U. S. Rep. Bill Dickinson said at New Brockton last Friday. Speaking at the annual installation meeting of the Wiregrass Resource, Conservation and Development Committee, the congressman said there are two chances of action on the legislation, "slim and none."

He said creation of the new department is an administration proposal, that President Nixon has asked for this new department. But with the Democratic controlled Congress he said the proposal may not have a chance.

Currently he said the legislation is "falling on the back shelf of the government operations committee both in the House and the Senate."

WALKS AWAY FROM CAMP ELBA

INMATE BUILDS BOAT - ESCAPES

An inmate at the Elba prison camp took 4200 matches, a bottle of glue and other miscellaneous items and made this boat for his son's birthday. The gift was presented to the young boy last Sunday during visiting day. On Monday the prisoner, Billy Don Clark, who was serving a life sentence for murdering later in the day.

Saturday morning the inmate talked with a representative of this newspaper and confessed to being converted to Christianity in January of 1970. He also said he was GLAD he went to prison because of the things he had learned. For twenty months Clark worked with the chaplain at the Elba prison. He said at first he didn't want the Bible but started reading and found God was real. He was proud of the fact that during four years of prison he didn't have a single black mark against his name, even though at Elba he had seen several killings and had been close enough to one for the blood to squirt onto his shirt. He also said Saturday that he wanted to be a model prisoner and get out to be with his family as soon as possible. Clark is 33 years old.

The boat, which is pictured here, took Clark two weeks to build, working five or six hours a day. He had no pattern nor any prior experience when he started this project. He had some help from another inmate, a Charles Brunson, a native of

He was convicted for murder in 1963 in Opelika while traveling through from Virginia to New Orleans. He told this newspaper that he often counsels younger inmates to keep their nose clean and make something of their lives. "You can mess up your whole life in 30 seconds," said Clark.

Monday morning, when he walked away from Camp Elba Clark took about $150 from the "Store Box," the little store where prisoners can buy tobacco, gum, etc. Clark was in charge of the Store Box.

Circuit Court Suit Filed Against Ziglar

A lawsuit challenging Owen Ziglar's right as a City Councilman to vote for himself to fill the vacancy in the mayor's office was filed last Friday afternoon. The suit, filed by Attorney Gareth Lindsey, was signed by Mrs. Refina Grimes. The accompanying bond guaranteeing the court cost if she loses the case was signed by Mrs. Grimes, her husband, Pete Grimes, and also by Cupid L. Kelley.

When asked several questions about the suit, Mrs. Grimes referred all questions to her lawyer.

Ziglar was selected on a 3-2 vote of the city council in which he voted for himself. He is now serving as mayor and legally can continue serving until such time as the proposed court case is settled pro or con.

The proceedings being followed is to seek a QUO WARRANTO JUDGEMENT (which comes to American courts from Old English common law, in old English practice it is a writ against a person who claimed or usurped any office to inquire by what authority he supported his claim in order to determine the right to hold the office. In the United States it is the method usually employed for trying the title to a public or corporate office. It is a civil case and carries no criminal penalties for either side.

It is intended to prevent the exercise of powers that are not conferred by law, and is not ordinarily available to regulate the manner of exercising such power.

In this particular case, the councilman had two conflicting legal opinions on Ziglar's right to vote for himself to give him the necessary clear majority of the voting councilmen. There are five city councilmen and when Ziglar was nominated the vote (with-out Ziglar voting) was two for and two against. Councilmen Sam Sawyer and Charles Ellis voted against while Councilmen Rommie Vaughan and Ben Carpenter voted for Ziglar. Ziglar's vote for himself gave him the necessary clear majority required by the Alabama code.

This week Ziglar was asked about the filing of the suit. He said, "Yes, I acknowledge that the suit has been served." He continued with, "Certainly no man is above the law and I submit to the jurisdiction of the court. In casting my vote, I relied on the opinion of the Attorney General's office that I could legally do so. I still maintain that the Attorney General's opinion is correct. I wish now only to have this matter settled by the courts so that this city can go on with its normal business. While this matter is being legally settled, the City of Elba will continue to function effectively and properly for the benefit of all its citizens as I pledged in

Revenge Sweet For Bulldogs

FOOTBALL The Elba Tigers were beaten every way possible last Friday night by the Andalusia Bulldogs. Andalusia ran and passed their way to a 41-0 lead at half as they scored at will against a lack-luster Tiger defense. Before the final whistle, Andalusia had 51 points while Elba hadn't even come close.

After the opening kick it was obvious the Elba Tigers were out-classed. After having the ball for three downs, Elba netted only three yards and had to punt. The punt was taken at mid-field and returned to the Elba 46.

Andalusia didn't waste any time and in six plays had six points on the scoreboard with 7:12 left in the first quarter. The PAT failed.

After receiving the kick-off, the Tigers had to punt again after three downs.

Andalusia took the ball at the Elba 35. On first down an option around left end put the ball at the 35. On the next play a 35 yard pass to Andalusia's Harris Rabren, who was wide open was good for another TD with 4:34 left in the first quarter. The two-point conversion failed.

After receiving the kick, Elba mustered a short drive which fizzled out when a Holley pass was intercepted at the Bulldog 40 and returned to the Elba 43. On first down Andalusia's Albert Weeden flew around right end for another Bulldog TD with 11:35 left in the second quarter. This time the two-point conversion was good and Andalusia led 26-0.

Elba began play at their own 20 after the kick went into the endzone. After picking up one first down, Elba had to punt on a fourth and 10 situation. Andalusia's Jeff McQueen fumbled the punt at the Bulldog 39 and Elba recovered, having their only break of the night. The Tigers couldn't do anything and were forced to punt.

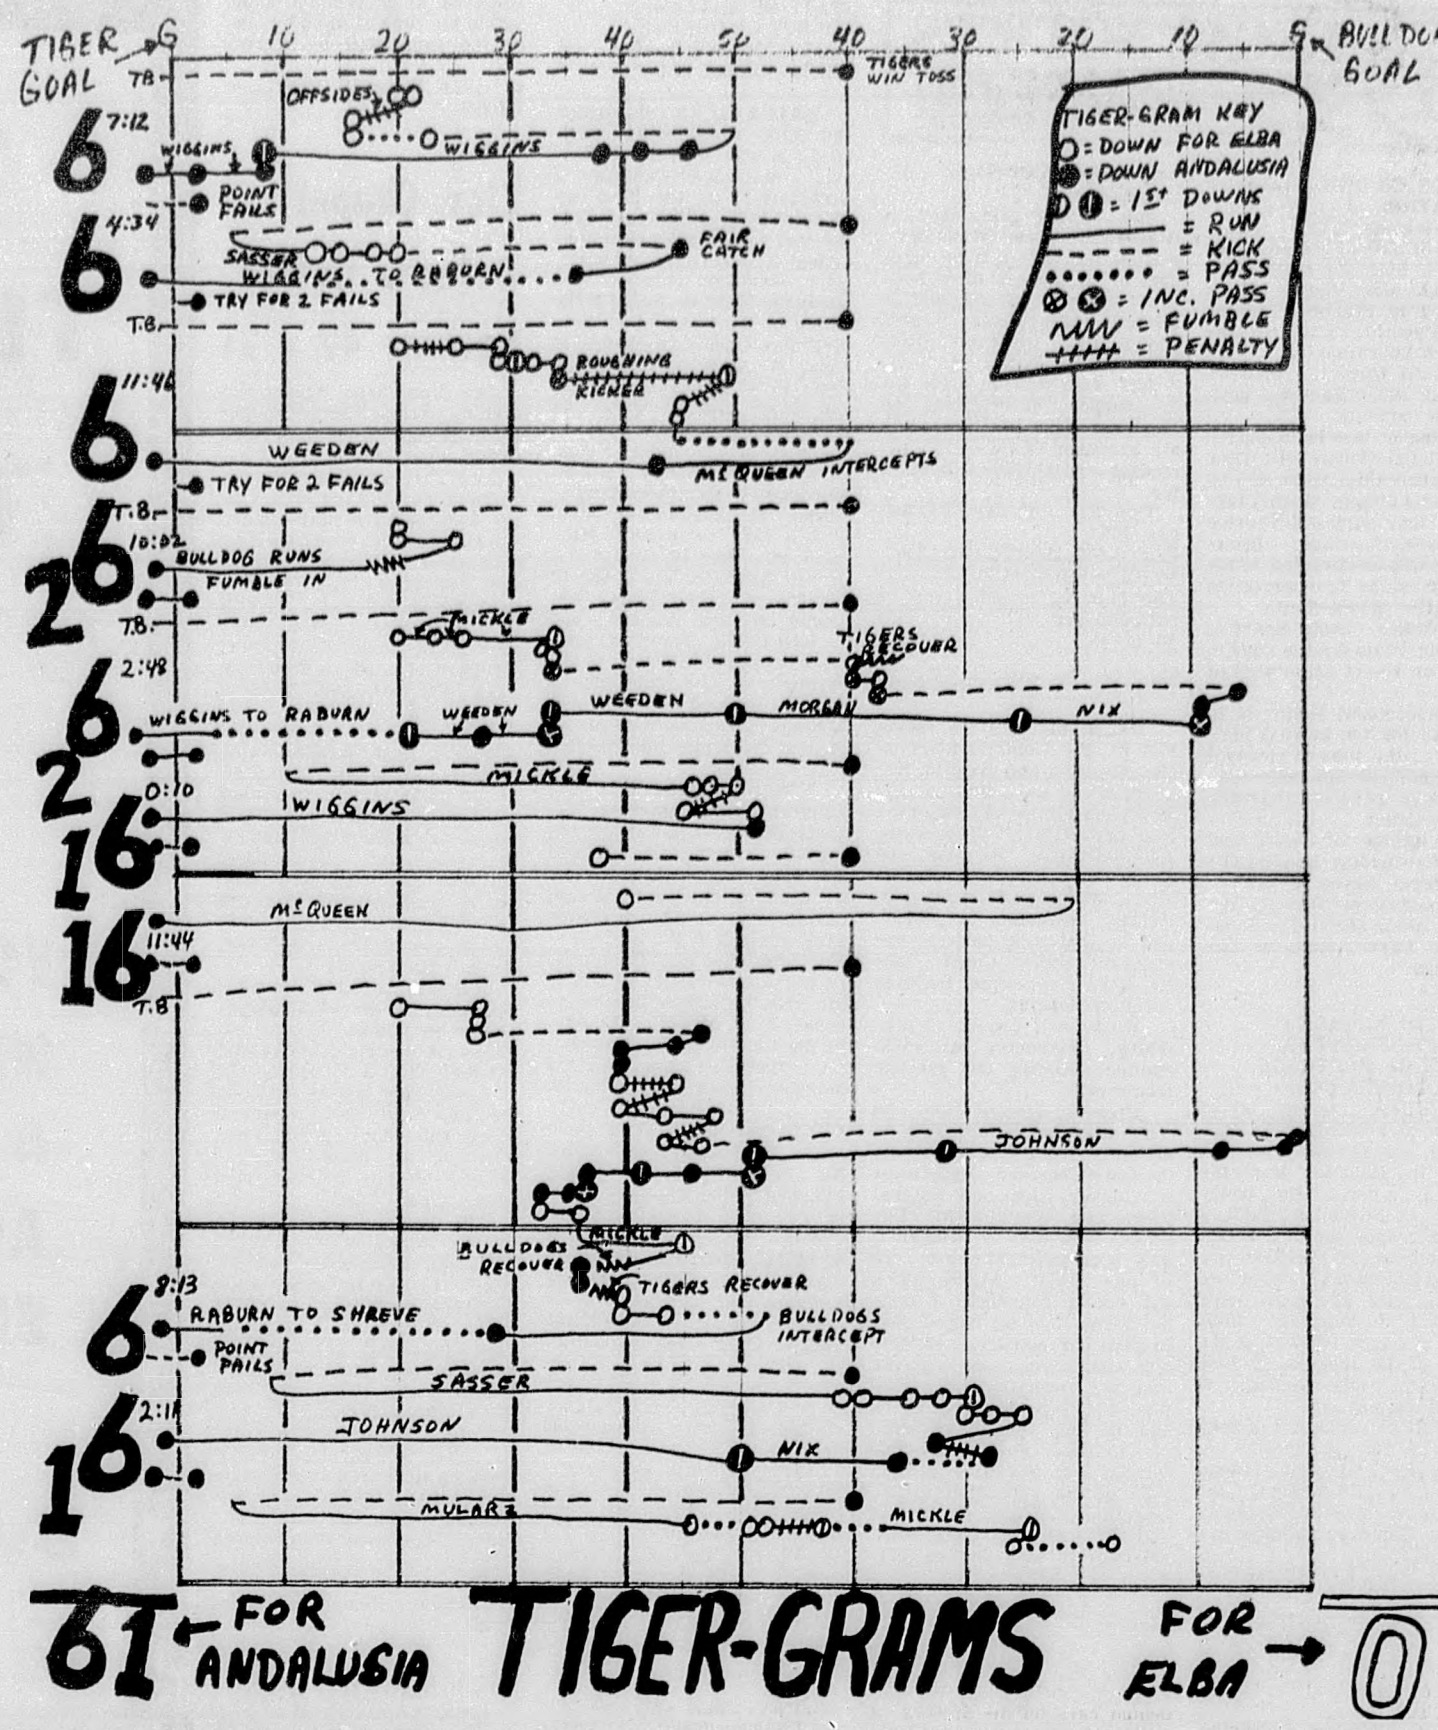

Andalusia took over at their own six yard line and in nine plays had covered 94 yards for another TD. The two-point conversion was good and the Bulldogs led 34-0 with 2:48 left in the second half.

Andalusia scored once again the first half after getting the ball on downs at the Tiger 48. The score at half-time was 41-0 Andalusia.

The second half was a repeat of the first half as Andalusia scored once in the third quarter and twice in the fourth quarter to win convincingly over the Tigers 61-0.

BEEF EXPANSION

Just about everybody agrees that Coffee County cattle producers have an excellent opportunity to expand. We have the land, we have the know-how, we have the capital for expansion, and everything points to the production of calves in the years ahead. In addition to this, there appears to be a re-adjustment in traditional crops. This might bring about added incentive to get into the beef cattle business.

Thinking of the beef cattle business reminded me of a statement by Foster Rhodes, specialist at the University of Georgia. Rhodes said, "Weaning weight and percent calf crop are the two most important factors in determining the profitability of a cow-calf program. In summary, the number of cows giving birth to a calf along with weaning weight versus production cost is the key to beef production."

Rhodes says that if we assume a $120 a year cow maintenance cost, we invest about 24 cents per pound of calf with a 90 percent calf crop and a weaning weight of 500 pounds. In the other extreme, with a 60 percent calf crop and a 350-pound calf, the production cost is 57 cents a pound.

OVERSEEDING

More and more Coffee County beef producers are over-seeding established permanent pastures. One reason for the rapid increase in this practice is the high cost of concentrates and feed grains. A lot of cattlemen figure that they'd rather spend their money on seed and fertilizer than on feed and concentrates. Possibly a combination of the two will help a lot of our producers.

Don't make the mistake of trying to overseed too early. Be sure that you wait until after Bermudagrass, bahiagrass and other grasses are inactive. Be sure, also, that the excess grass is either clipped or grazed as close as possible before applying seed. Some folks who do a light discing and then sow the seed. Others will use some type of soil seeder.

Don't expect any grazing from this system until after Christmas. It is also important to put out nitrogen as soon as the grass is up to a stand. W. H. Taylor, over near Elba, and other producers in Coffee County have been very successful in this practice.

CAMELLIA INSECTS

I have noticed that a lot of camellias are infected with hinds and other insects that cause leaves to become discolored and fall off. Camellias need to be protected from these insects. To see if yours are being damaged, check the undersides of the leaves. If you notice a lot of white, powdery material, you need to spray. Material such as 57 percent emulsifiable concentrate malathion at the rate of 2 tablespoons per gallon of water will do an excellent job. Five percent malathion dust can also be used.

FARM MANAGEMENT

Plans are being made for a farm management short-course for farmers to be held after Christmas. In the near future, farmers may be facing some changes in their production plans. We think that a short-course on farm management, to include selecting farm enterprises, is much needed. We will be working in conjunction with Glen Speyer, Director of Agri-Business at the Entomology State Junior College. We haven't had a short-course on farm management in 5 or 6 years. We are expecting a good attendance at this short-course. We will keep you posted on this program and give you an opportunity to attend.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY

Wednesday night is Halloween. Children in the cities usually go from house to house with their trick-or-treat games. This visiting also occurs in the rural areas where houses are fairly close together. Halloween is always a special time for children. They enjoy the spooky nature of the annual event. For this reason, we need to be extra careful as we drive our cars Halloween night. In addition to this, I don't know of any child who has been hurt in the past. Parents should certainly hope that they can have a safe Halloween season. Be sure to caution your children to be safety-conscious.

COFFEE CONSERVATION

The Measure Of Our Land

The demands placed on our soil has reached a new high. While the population in the United States and the world is growing by leaps and bounds, we are losing valuable farmland to non-agricultural uses at an even greater rate. Producing food and fiber to supply ourselves as well as some other nations of the world is bound to place a serious drain on our soil resources.

Fortunately, America's land resources are rich and varied. We have millions of acres of fertile and productive croplands, great and varied forests, extensive natural grazing lands, and rich mineral deposits.

Although America is generally endowed with most natural resources, we can't afford to be complacent and think the supply is inexhaustible. In the past we have been able to take care of population increases by opening up new land. Now, we have to provide for more people on fewer acres. This simply means that we must produce more per acre.

We can still see evidence of the erosion that took place when cotton was king during the 19th century and the early part of the 20th century. Most all of the hilly land and the more erodible soils lost all or most of the topsoil, especially in some sections of the southeast. We simply can't make this mistake again.

Research and farmer experience has proven that practically all land can be made to produce more at a profit and still be improved at the same time. Traditionally, for many

Revenge Sweet For Bulldogs

FOOTBALL—The Elba Tigers were beaten every way possible last Friday night by the Andalusia Bulldogs.

Andalusia ran and passed their way to a 41-0 lead at half as they scored at will against a lack-luster Tiger defense. Before the final whistle, Andalusia had 61 points while Elba hadn't even come close.

After the opening kick it was obvious the Elba Tigers were out-classed. After having the ball for three downs, Elba netted only three yards and had to punt. The punt was taken at mid-field and returned to the Elba 46.

Andalusia didn't waste any time and in six plays had six points on the scoreboard with 7:12 left in the first quarter. The PAT failed.

After receiving the kick-off, the Tigers had to punt again after three downs.

Andalusia took the ball at the Elba 45. On first down an option around left end put the ball at the 35. On the next play a 35 yard pass to Andalusia's Harris Rabren, who was wide open, was good for another TD with 4:34 left in the first quarter. The two-point conversion failed.

After receiving the kick, Elba mustered a short drive which fizzled out when a Holley pass was intercepted at the Bulldog 40 and returned to the Elba 40.

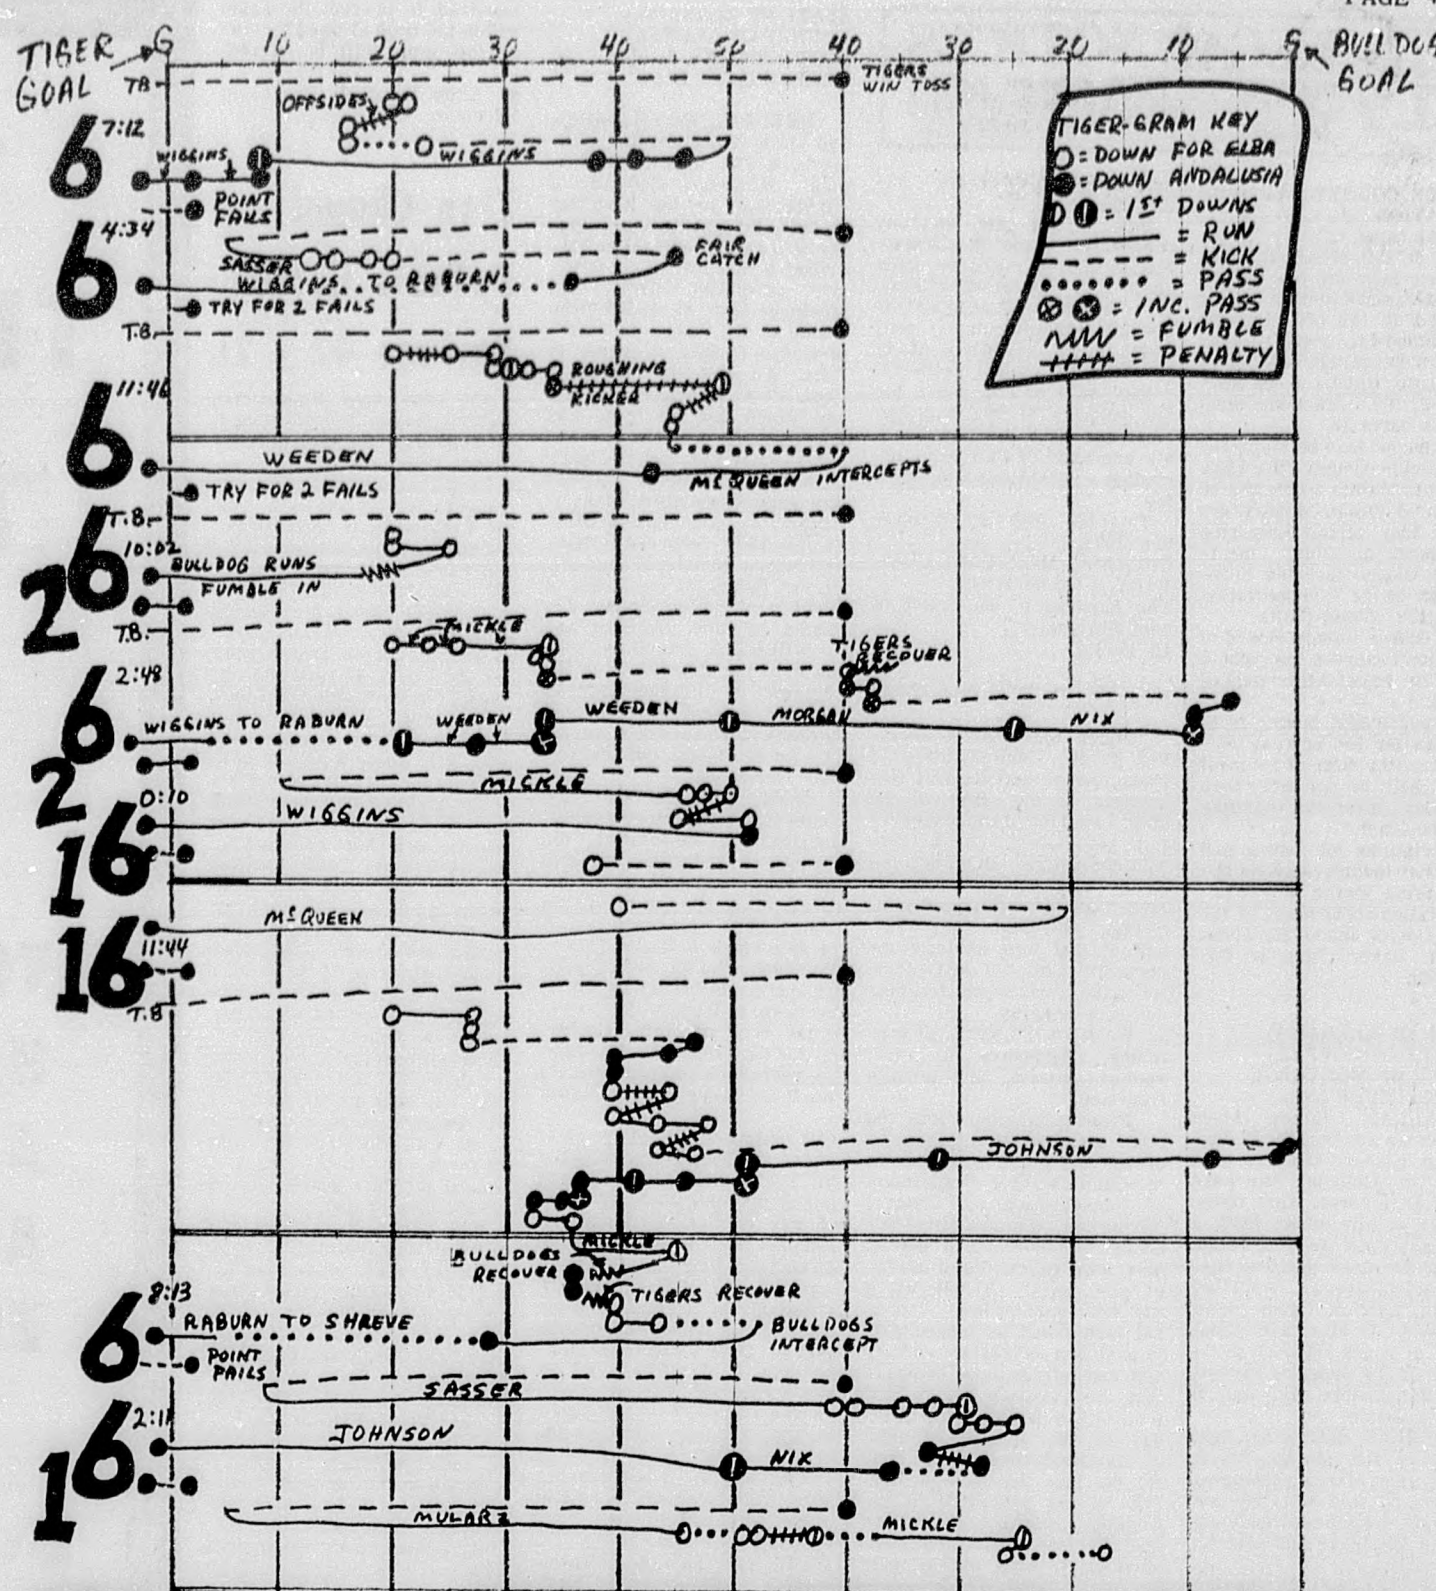

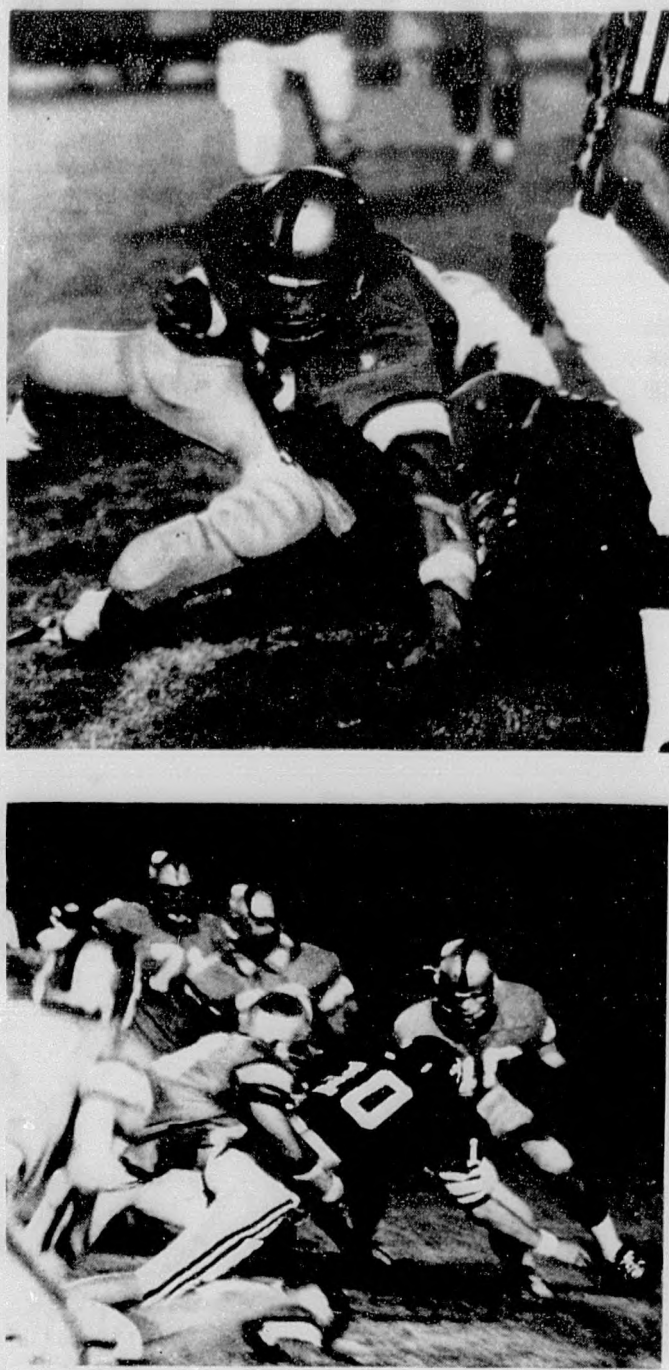

On first down Andalusia's Albert Weeden flew around right end for another Bulldog TD with 11:35 left in the second quarter. This time the two-point conversion was good and Andalusia led 26-0.

Elba began play at their own 20 after the kick went into the endzone. After picking up one first down, Elba had to punt on a fourth and 10 situation. Andalusia's Jeff McQueen fumbled the punt at the Bulldog 30 and Elba recovered, having their only break of the night. The Tigers couldn't do anything and were forced to punt.

Andalusia took over at their own six yard line and in nine plays had covered 94 yards for another TD. The two-point conversion was good and the Bulldogs led 34-0 with 2:48 left in the second quarter.

Andalusia scored once again the first half after getting the ball on downs at the Tiger 48. The score at half-time was 41-0 Andalusia.

The second half was a repeat of the first half as Andalusia scored once in the third quarter and twice in the fourth quarter to win convincingly over the Tigers 61-0.

A Visit To The Past And A Storybook Town

By: Faye Holliday

This past weekend I visited a storybook town - the kind that brought an instant "Alicia and Jerry" thought to my mind. The town is that of Stonewall, Mississippi, where an aunt of mine lives.

We had visited in Stonewall during the years of my childhood, and the main thing I remembered about it was - the black dirt (I thought) and the fact that I would not want to live there. But, an adult look at the picturesque little town gave me the impression of an ideal place to live - a place where the child in you always longed to run and play and walk home in the dusk.

It has narrow streets, with neat houses on either side - not too close together - and is sort of blocked out in a pattern that seems to make it easy to walk to a neighbor's house "across town" without much effort or time. There are ample trees and shrubbery - little wooden bridges across narrow streams - here and there - a small park where sets a structure with a roof and a gate-like enclosure around the bottom of the hill. As we rode by, I had an urge to get out and sit there in the tranquil Fall atmosphere.

This little park is near the cotton mill - which is the life's blood of Stonewall, and where my uncle and aunt worked for many years.

At one time, workers lived in houses owned by the Mill; now my aunt says, "the people have purchased their own homes, and also built new ones. The cotton mill has expanded, and many new folks have settled in this little place - they even have a trailer park, my aunt bragged!

CHRISTMAS SEALS COMING

The word Christmas usually evokes images of snowy hillsides, decorative greenery, and gifts. Residents of Coffee County will get a glimpse of such visions on or before November 12th when they receive their first gift of the Holiday Season - the 1973 Christmas Seal. On that day, the Annual Christmas Seal Campaign of the Alabama Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association will open, according to Mrs. Una Edwards of Enterprise, this year's chairman.

Youth has once again been injected into the Christmas Seal Campaign - this year through the Seal's designer, Cheryl Johnson. She is a 23-year-old native of Arlington, Va.

Ms. Johnson describes her designs as personal expressions of love for the Holiday Season.

Contributions to the Christmas Seal Campaign support the vital year-round efforts against emphysema, tuberculosis, asthma, air pollution, and cigarette smoking. This year's goal is $4,342.00 and "It's a Matter of Life and Death."

UAB Tells Of IgA System

More effective vaccines against diseases of the respiratory and gastrointestinal tract are being developed as a result of new information on man's complex immune system.

At an international symposium on the Immunoglobulin A (IgA) System, held at the School of Dentistry, University of Alabama-Birmingham (UAB), scientists explained that the IgA system produced antibodies at the site of infection on the surfaces of mucous membranes, rather than in the blood stream.

That is why injected vaccines produce only limited immunity against viral diseases such as influenza and other infectious diseases. Better results are obtained when the vaccines are applied directly to the mucous membranes - through the nasal passages, the throat, eyes, or the genital tract.

Dr. Robert Waldman, University of Florida Medical School internist, claims that in recent clinical trials vaccines against influenza which were developed through cooperative studies, have been up to 90% effective when sprayed in the throat. This compares with the approximately 50% effectiveness of the more commonly used injected vaccines. Dr. Waldman uses an aerosol spray to administer the vaccine.

While studies on the newer methods of vaccinating are not yet conclusive Dr. Waldman believes there exist excellent possibilities for vaccinating against a number of diseases including streptococcal infections, crop, herpes virus, the hepatitis, gonorrhea and syphilis.

Similar possibilities exist for eradicating dental caries, or decay, through immunization, said Dr. Robert Genco, State University of New York, Buffalo. The IgA antibody is also present in saliva. If we can find an acceptable method of administration of a sufficiently potent vaccine, we can stimulate enough of the IgA antibodies to prevent caries. Presently there are three methods to decrease the incidence of caries, Genco explained. "Cleaning the teeth, cutting down on sugars, and topical fluoride."

9-12 Grade Parents To Meet

There will be a meeting of parents of students in grades 9 - 12 at Elba High School on Monday night, November 5 at 7:00 p.m. at the ROTC building in Elba.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the ROTC program needs. As of this time, there are only 75 cadets, and the program needs 100 in the next year to continue to function.

"A sure sign of inflation is when the office gang gathers around the water cooler instead of the coffee-maker," - Herman Gross, Tri-County (Mo.) News.

Do-It Yourself Church Opens

J. I. Crocker wanted a church, so he just went out and got himself a church, moved it onto property he already owned and began preaching to any and all who would listen. This week revival services are being held under the direction of Reverend Joe Lynch of Dothan. Services are held on November 8, 9, 10 and ending on Sunday the 11th. Crocker has issued a warm welcome to all interested in attending the "Hour of Faith".

Homecoming F'men Fight Smog

Homecoming 1973-74 could not have been filled with any more spirit or enthusiasm. Every student, teacher, and citizen of Elba worked very hard to make this year one to never be forgotten. The entire town turned out to support their community and school.

The Elba High Student Council helped to encourage local merchants and citizens to participate more enthusiastically in Homecoming by offering awards to the best decorated Elba stores. On Friday, the Student Council officers went downtown and judged the decorated store windows. Engraved plaques were presented to the following merchants:

1st Place - The Peoples Bank
2nd Place - The Elba Florist
3rd Place - Dyess Fabrics

The Homecoming was climaxed by the Homecoming Parade which was one of the most beautiful ever. The hard work and time that everyone put into their floats couldn't have looked more beautiful.

The entries participating in the 1973 Elba Homecoming parade were divided into four categories, and judged accordingly. Winners of each category are as follows:

Civic Club Cars
1st place - Rotary Club
2nd place - BPW Club
3rd place - Elba Study Club
Football teams' float -
1st place - Cowboys
2nd place - Raiders
3rd place - Dolphins

School Club Cars
1st place - Tiger Pep Club
Truck decorated as a Tiger
2nd place - French Club -
Car decorated on French National colors, flags, and fleur-de-lis
3rd place - Science Club -
space ship atop a Corvette
High School Floats
1st place - 7th grade - Volks-wagen decorated as a Tiger
2nd place - 10th grade - "Tigers Can Do Anything"
3rd place - 8th grade - "Walking Tall"

Honorable mention was also given to the 8th grade who worked so hard on their float, only to have it almost completely destroyed by vandalism on Thursday night prior to the parade.

First place winners received blue ribbons; second place - red ribbons; and third place - white ribbons.

RESCUE REPORT

Windham Gathers Gourds

Mr. Wilson Windham, Rt. 3 Elba, has a growing industry - he raises gourds for Martins. The gourds are selling well, and are fast-moving items at places like antique shops.

Mr. Windham raises the gourds on a 2 1/2 acre plot. He picks, dries and then sells them. He says this is the best crop he has had, having raised them for some time. Some of the vines grow as long as 50 feet.

Kermit G. Crook will be Elba's new City Clerk, effective next Monday, November 12th.

Mr. Crook recently retired from a State job. He and Mrs. Crook have three children, none of which live at home.

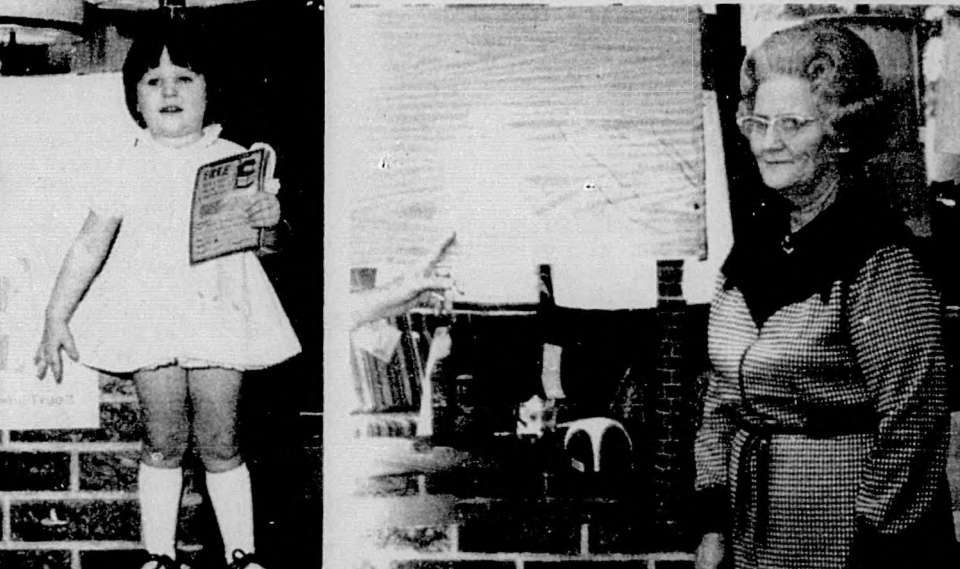

Mr. Crook says he is sure he will like the job just fine. It looks like interesting work.

The new clerk will move into the vacancy created by the resignation of Tom Dyess. Dyess's resignation is effective tomorrow (Friday, Nov. 9).

Reminder

Leaves are falling abundantly again, and the trash and garbage crews of Elba have a few helpful hints for citizens.

They ask that residents bag leaves or keep them piled near the curb ready for pick-up. Also the leaves need to be separated from cans, bottles, limbs, etc. so that the workers can use the leaf vacuum pick-up.
